WHY WE OFFER IONIC ELEMENTS

Minerals are essential to healthy living. However, our levels can fluctuate, depending on exercise, illness, and even what we eat. Pure Planet's Ionic Elements helps replenish these lost minerals and electrolytes with a humic and fulvic acid base, and ocean and plant trace elements.

INTERESTING FACTS

Fulvic acid is naturally found in a part of soil called the humus and in natural bodies of water. The acid is formed during a plant's microbial metabolism process and released when organic matter decomposes in soil. It contains nutrients and ionically charged minerals. Our body relies on ionic minerals and trace elements to conduct electrical impulses, which are essential for major body functions.

HISTORY

Due to topsoil erosion and overuse of farmland chemicals, many believe essential minerals are being stripped from soil used to grow produce, leading to a deficiency amongst the general population. To help rectify these deficiencies, nutritionists have turned to different forms of fulvic supplements.

Mineral replenishment also has grown to be a hot topic in the realm of sports drinks. Many sports drinks and waters have been enriched with electrolytes to aid recovery and performance. While there are tons of electrolyte-replenishing drinks, many contain harmful additives and sugars.

POTENTIAL BENEFITS

Pure Planet's Ionic Elements may help support athletic recovery, muscular function, and performance through electrolyte-replenishment. However, the product's reach extends farther than just the athletic world! This blend of fulvic and trace elements can support the body's response to stress, the aging process, and overexertion. The blend may also support major body functions, such as immunity, alkalinity, and sleep. Finally, lonic Elements can also support the healthy growth of hair, skin, and nails through mineral nutrients.

HOW IT IS MADE

We start with a special, rare source of humic and fulvic base. Then, we use our proprietary (acid-free) refining method to accelerate the concertation and purity.
